Rachael Kenney: That would be wonderful to hear about!

Jordan Crawford: We could have a whole networking lunch just on acronyms!

Amy Maclay Kilbourne: Indeed- VA is good at that :-)

Leah Haverhals: the VA has a zillion :)

David Bekelman: The overview of VA priorities in pragmatic research was very helpful! Can you please discuss funding opportunities for pragmatic research? I know HSR&D has prioritized implementation science. What about QUERI opportunities, especially since the SDP and QUERI randomized trial funding opportunities aren't available anymore?

Jordan Crawford: less than 30 minutes, folks! please submit any questions/discussion topics into the chat

Emily Velandia: I'm not sure if ya'll will be able to answer this, but do either of you have any recommendations for starting pragmatic research partnerships with other federal agencies?

Michelle Rauzi: Could you speak to the dissemination pathways and mechanisms for programs?

Jess Indresano (they/them): Do you have tips for publishing articles based on QI data, which are often IRB-exempt?

Jordan Crawford: ~10 minutes left!

Amy Maclay Kilbourne: just send the links to our non-research cyberseminar!

Jess Indresano (they/them): Thanks for sharing your experiences and knowledge with us today!

Michelle Rauzi: Thank you!
