

Liz Salmi: Patient perspective here!

Elva Arredondo: research perspective

Bethany Kwan: Researcher perspective

Rachel Steinberg: research perspective

Liz Salmi: Introduce your perspective in the chat box!

Nikki Wagner: Research perspective

Amy Huebschmann: researcher perspective

Rashelle Hoffman: I'm a physical therapist/researcher (research perspective) and interested in learning more about how to best create sustainable interventions for patients and the community.

Dennis Gurfinkel: research perspective - I also have to hop off at 1 :(

Mary Fisher: Research perspective

Bethany Kwan: this party goes ALL NIGHT

Julie Cakici: Research perspective

Linda Salgin: research perspective :)

Bethany Kwan: AND Liz will be keynote speaker at the annual PCORI conference next month

Julie Cakici: Congratulations Liz!! That's wonderful!

Bethany Kwan: Thank you to Liz, Elva and Ramona! I'm going to hop over to another lunch.

Liz Salmi: I am also curious about that!

Dennis Gurfinkel: I have to hop off but thank you all this is very interesting!

Amy Huebschmann: This is a great discussion, but I have to pop off for a family moment -- challenges of remote working!! Take care, everyone.

Linda Salgin: hi all, my mic isn't working but I can share via chat. I work for an FQHC in the research department and we have a few Community Advisory Board that are inclusive of our patients and community members. The biggest challenge is keeping them engaging and making sure they feel valued and that their input is making a difference. We often share ideas with our funders (NIH) and some of them have been invited to join NIH led advisory boards

---

DISCLAIMER: This is an unedited chat transcript of a Colorado Pragmatic Research in Health Conference (COPRH Con) held on August 11th-12th 2020 and is presented offered as a resource "as is." The content of this transcript is uncorrected and has not been proof read. Opinions and statements included in the transcript are solely those of the individual person(s), presenter(s) or participant(s) at the meeting, and are not necessarily adopted, endorsed or verified as accurate by ACCORDS or LearningTimes.

Linda Salgin: I think these have led to the members feeling trusted and then wanting to then be part of our research initiatives to make sure we are taking into consideration the community perspective.

Liz Salmi: Thanks, Linda! Knowing that the time us community stakeholders investors actually TURNS INTO SOMETHING is very valuable and motivating to keep participating.

Mary Fisher: Thanks, Elva, Liz, and Ramona! I need to hop off to another meeting. Thanks for sharing your experiences with us all :)

Preeti Zanwar: Community leadership can change or transition to new; how does one adapt to such changes, since relationships are build primarily on a person level.

Preeti Zanwar: Thanks Liz for sharing all your secrets!

Preeti Zanwar: Got to hop off to another meeting.

Liz Salmi: LIZ SALMI: GIVING AWAY ALL THE SECRETS!

Linda Salgin: thanks for sharing Liz!!

Ramona Koren: I am having major technical difficulties

Liz Salmi: Thanks for letting us know, Ramona!

Ramona Koren: I don't think so but thank you

Nikki Wagner: Thanks Liz!

Julie Cakici: Great idea Jeanette!

Liz Salmi: Love that idea!

Linda Salgin: Hi Nikki, we have a CBPR project at San Ysidro Health aimed at STI prevention in young adults in South Bay San Diego which is entirely led by high school students. We had meetings with the school teachers, PTA meetings etc to express the importance and then interviewed them to join. it was a big career building opportunity and we targeted those on the medical/science tracks which also was helpful

---

DISCLAIMER: This is an unedited chat transcript of a Colorado Pragmatic Research in Health Conference (COPRH Con) held on August 11th-12th 2020 and is presented offered as a resource "as is." The content of this transcript is uncorrected and has not been proof read. Opinions and statements included in the transcript are solely those of the individual person(s), presenter(s) or participant(s) at the meeting, and are not necessarily adopted, endorsed or verified as accurate by ACCORDS or LearningTimes.

Nikki Wagner: That's a great idea.

Salgin: and to keep them engaged, we trained the youth on CBPR models, interviewing, survey analysis and really built their skills

Linda Salgin: these youth stayed with us for 3 years which was amazing!

Liz Salmi: Everything turns into a paper!

Linda Salgin: thank you!

Julie Cakici: Thank you all very much for sharing your experiences. This was a great discussion!

Linda Salgin: Thank you all! Such a great discussion!

Rachael Kenney: THank you all! Wish I could have joined from the beginning but this was great!

---

DISCLAIMER: This is an unedited chat transcript of a Colorado Pragmatic Research in Health Conference (COPRH Con) held on August 11th-12th 2020 and is presented offered as a resource "as is." The content of this transcript is uncorrected and has not been proof read. Opinions and statements included in the transcript are solely those of the individual person(s), presenter(s) or participant(s) at the meeting, and are not necessarily adopted, endorsed or verified as accurate by ACCORDS or LearningTimes.