Colorado Pragmatic Research in Health
2020 VIRTUAL CONFERENCE

russglasgow: What would you advise mentees or trainees NOT do...or for those of you mid-level, would you recommend NOT doing in terms of training, etc.

Randi Libbon: do you have information about how you would decide what kind of K award may be best fit for an individual looking to further their research?

Amy Huebschmann: Have to do it... plug for our University of Colorado's Graduate Certificate in Dissemination and Implementation Science that is co-sponsored by ACCORDS and our local NIH-funded CTSA. I direct this program and happy to field questions. Website:

Danielle Ostendorf: Dr. Lewis - thank you for your great feedback on ways to get additional training in D&I. I was rapidly trying to type notes as you listed those off and I think I missed one. Would you mind putting those in the chat for those of use looking for ways to write this in our K awards?

Cara C. Lewis: TIDIRC, Archived TIDIRH, Implementation Research Institute, Society for Implementation Research Collaboration (has Network of Expertise mentor matching program), Academy Health D&I conference (includes an archived "orientation to D&I on NCI website), KPWHRI has a K12 with UW and Wash State U).

Qing Li: How can mentors model and promote the transdisciplinary team sciences? Sometimes, mentors might not be the content experts in certain areas.

Randi Libbon: Thank you that was very helpful!

Danielle Ostendorf: Thank you panelists!
